Affirmative Wins Arts '32 Debate by Chairman's Vote

Victors Declare Empire Can Never Be Economic Unit

The Arts '32 debate, "Resolved That Canada should secede from the British Empire," was held yesterday afternoon at 4 in Room 70, Arts Building. E. E. Cockerton and M. Heller upheld the affirmative, and E. J. White and N. Levy, the negative. The affirmative won, when the chairman exercised his casting vote.

E. E. Cockerton opened the debate for the affirmative, stressing the fact that the British Empire can never be an economic unit. Varied races spread all over the globe, each with their own economic outlooks, and politics, prevent any real union by their own self-centred interests.

Ties Those of Sentiment

The leader of the negative, E. J. White, argued that Canada was held to England by ties of sentiment stronger far than any based merely on mutual benefit. He emphasised our debt to the mother land, and recalled times when England came to our aid in times of stress. Lastly, he declared that secession was directly contrary to the aims of the Fathers of Confederation.

M. Heller, substituting for K. Angel stated that England has always been a drawback to Canada's progress, and (Continued on Page Two)

Sunday Tea in Strathcona Hall

Secretary of S. V. M. Will Talk on Missions

Tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock a tea will be held in Strathcona Hall under the auspices of the S.V.M. and S.V.M. Mr. Ted Cumming, secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement in Canada will be the speaker, his subject being, "Why Foreign Missions?" All members and friends of the two movements are invited.

Mr. Cumming is a graduate of Dalhousie University, and has recently been appointed as missionary to China under the United Church of Canada. This will be the first tea that the Student Christian Association will hold this term.

All those intending to be present are asked to leave their names at the General Secretary's office in Strathcona Hall. A charge of twenty-five cents will be made for the tea.

King Speaks at 'Y'

"Over-production and Under-consumption" to be Subject

Mr. Henry King, B. A., (Oxon) Chief Statistician of Cockfield Brown & Company, Ltd., is the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. Forum Series, "The Christian Ethic & Unemployment". The lecture "Over-production and Under-consumption" will be held in the Association Hall Sunday Feb. 1st at 2.15. The general public is invited.

This is the third of the series of the Y. M. C. A. Forum, a series which has proved extremely popular and interesting and which always draws a capacity crowd.

Engineers Brave Colds Conducting Annual Game

Local taxi-drivers and other car owners with a guilty conscience were horrified yesterday afternoon to perceive two grim and silent figures standing on the corner of University and Sherbrooke streets equipped with pencil and paper. They were engaged, apparently in noting the numbers of passing vehicles, an action well designed to strike terror into the hearts of the above mentioned.

As a matter of fact traffic was seriously hindered for a while due to the rapid slamming on of brakes and much chaos resulted. Close investigation, however, disclosed the fact that the suspected "spotters" were more members of third year civil engineering conducting Professor French's annual game of "Spot the Taxi".

Members Of "Pirate" Crew Show Broadcast Prowess

Cast Sings Light Opera Selections Over Local Station

Mount Royal After-Dance To Feature The Last Performance

Soloists from the Choral and Operatic Society were a feature of yesterday's Layton Hour broadcast over CFCF when members of the cast of "Pirates of Penzance" offered many numbers from the famous comic opera masterpiece, which is scheduled for a run of five days commencing Tuesday, February 10.

The first solo, "When Frederic was a Little Lad" was presented by Rae Berlin and followed by "O Better For to Live and Die", by Bruce Hallett, who takes the part of the Pirate Chief. "I Am The Very Model of a Modern Major-General" was then given by Max Ford. The duet "O Leave Me not to Pine Alone", which concluded the program, was sung by Liliana Dodds and Bob Calder. The solos and duets came over the air very well, but due to the fact that not many of the chorus were present the choral parts, which however, did not have very much to sing in the selections chosen, were not so well in evidence.

Another broadcast at the same time and from the same station is slated for Tuesday and a third broadcast may be given later from Tudor Hall, it is reported by the committee in charge. The date for this latter broadcast will be announced in a later Daily.

The entire cast has been practising four times a week for some time past and everything is approaching completion under the direction of Mr. Cooper, the director, Mr. Richard Fuller, formerly of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, who is looking after the stage direction, and Mr. Harris Norris of the Conservatorium of Music, who is conducting the orchestra which will accompany the singers.

The ticket sale for the play is reported to be going well and those who want exchange tickets should get in touch with the authorities at once since the supply is not unlimited and there is a large demand. The box office is opening Monday evening and exchange tickets will be exchanged then for reserved seats on the night required. There is a rumour that perhaps the box office will be opened sooner than Monday but so far nothing definite has been decided about the proposed change in time.

Band to Enliven Monday's Tussle

Hearty Support Given Activities During Year

The second 1931 appearance of the McGill University Band under the baton of Bandmaster Sanetoni will be a feature of the McGill-Victoria game Monday night at the Forum. Popular marches, college songs and requests will be played.

Thursday last the Graduates Society was entertained by selections by the band, old college favorites and football songs being favored and the band will be in attendance at all the Intercollegiate hockey and basketball games next month.

Players have given hearty support to band activities this year; over 20 were present at the Graduate Smoker and a full turnout is expected for Monday's game. The regular uniform will be worn with the exception of the white flannels which will be replaced by dark trousers.

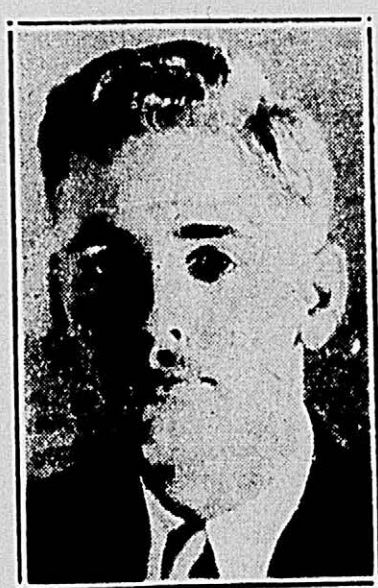

Engineers Brave Colds Conducting Annual Game

In other, or rather official words, "A Census of the Traffic. Passing the Corner of Sherbrooke and University Streets during the Time Interval of One Day."

Poor civility. From noon till ten they took two hour shifts in the teeth of a strong Nor'easter, but intelligence triumphed at last and the ten o'clock shift retired to the reading room of the Union, where more calories per capita were available and here the census was pursued for the balance of the time.

The official results have not as yet been made public but it is confidently expected that with the information thus obtained the plumbers will work out a theory that will stifle the annual game of "Spot the Taxi".

Many Turn Out For Revue Cast

Ford, Fenwick, Payton And Fyshe Appear Again

CHORINES SNAPPY

Revue Will Be Staged From March 8th to March 13th

Some fifty enthusiastic revue aspirants made their appearance at the Red and White Revue casting tryouts yesterday afternoon in the Union Grill room, and from the potential acting abilities demonstrated it is more than likely that this year's performance will be more than excellent others along this line.

Former members who attended were Russ Payton, Max Ford, Tam Fyshe, and Dean Fenwick, all of whom have garnered a name for themselves in connection with revue work. The crop of newcomers desirous of earning fame across the footlights proved to be more than up to the standard of former participants.

Work on Skits

Realizing that the skits are a major part of the annual student extravaganza, several members of the production committee were extremely pleased with the talent on hand, and with this last function completed the various characters will now be adapted to the skits. Musical numbers have all been submitted and the chorines are busily getting onto their steps in preparation for the opening date a few weeks from now. It is announced that pictures of both chorus groups will be taken next Tuesday at 5:15 (Continued on Page Two)

Presents Gentle View on Zionism

Howard Ross to Address Maccabean Circle

At the next meeting of the Maccabean Circle on Sunday Feb. 1st in the Lounge Room of the Union at 3 Howard S. Ross will speak on "A Gentle's View of Zionism."

Since Zionism is undoubtedly the most important movement in present day Judaism, the subject should provoke the keenest interest and discussion. By means of this movement Jewry all over the world has been united in spirit. The War has been the conquest of Palestine and this resulted in the probability of the re-establishment of that land as a Jewish homeland. From that time on, many millions of dollars have been invested in the country.

Dr. Ross is particularly well-qualified to speak on this subject and anything he says should be of absorbing interest to the Circle. He is a prominent Montreal lawyer who has given a part of his time in sociological and political questions. Everywhere acclaimed for his scholarship, he has lectured in all parts of United States and of Canada. In the near future he intends to leave for Europe on a speaking tour where he is scheduled to speak at many Universities, including Columbia, Cornell and New York. Mr. Ross made a special study of Zionism and a large audience is expected. The meeting is open to all (who are interested.)

Large Attendance Is Expected For Science Luncheon

THE first, and probably the last, Applied Science Luncheon of the year will come off in the dining room of the Windsor Station on Tuesday, February 3, at one o'clock. J. L. E. Price, general manager of the George A. Fuller Construction Company will be the guests speaker, and will talk on "Modern Building".

Besides the meal, the luncheon will offer a last opportunity for Science men to get together before the Plumber's Ball two weeks later. An attendance of well over two hundred is confidently expected. Every effort has been made by the committee in charge to make the affair a success. Tickets are sixty five cents, and may be obtained from class representatives.

Applicants Asked For Scholarships

Three McGill Men Gained Awards Last Year

ASSIST STUDENTS

Winners Attend European Universities to Complete Studies

With the intent to assist students who plan to follow their careers in the Province, post-graduate provincial scholarships will be given again this year by the Government of the Province of Quebec to post-graduate students desirous of completing their studies in Europe. The condition is that applicants are to be bona fide residents of the Province of Quebec and not over 25 years of age.

Last year out of ten applicants from McGill three received scholarships. H. F. Moseley, 1927 Rhodes Scholar, received a provincial scholarship enabling him to continue his medical studies in London. John T. Henderson is completing his work in London under the direction of Dr. E. V. Appleton, F. R. S. on problems in atmospheric electricity, which is of considerable importance in radio transmission. Harry Grundy, a 1930 graduate of the Faculty of Law was the third successful candidate and has proceeded to the Sorbonne, Paris. (Continued on Page Two)

Famous Irish Poet At People's Forum

George Russell Is Also Economist And Statesman

Of general interest to the world of letters is the coming visit to Montreal of George Russell, the famous AE of poetry. Of perhaps greater interest will be his speech to the People's Forum on Sunday evening, February 1st, 1931. His topic will be, "An Artist and Poet Considers Dreams."

Eminent poet, painter, economist and philosopher, George Russell is the High Priest of the Irish Renaissance of literature. His many-sided genius draws to him admirers from every walk of life. Those who sit at his feet as a mystic may be indifferent to his outstanding achievements in agricultural reform and cooperative economy. Those who are attracted to him by his masterly statesmanship may be oblivious of his power as a dramatist and poet. By whatever magnet they are drawn however, there are none who fail to find in this serene, generous, lovable personality, the stature of a giant among men.

Varsity's Paper Scored by Prof.

Would Expel Editor Because of Disgraceful Editorials

NOT FOR PRESS

Devotes Two Whole Lectures To His Opinions of "The Varsity"

Toronto, Jan. 31. — (By Exchange Service)—"The Varsity" has brought disgrace on the school on our staff and on the undergraduate body," claimed Professor C. H. C. Wright, professor of architecture, who devoted two whole lecture periods of the first and second year architecture respectively. In a scathing attack on "The Varsity", and the recent Free Speech issue.

"I do not want this for the press," the professor stated at the start of his lecture, but he did not refrain from vigorously telling the class his views. All this rumpus started because some silly professor of Orientals could not get out of trouble crossing a park and a few underworld characters wished to make trouble and the police commission was quite capable of looking after it, was the idea of Professor Wright.

Should be Tarred

The 65 professors should have left it to the commission and several of them deserved to be tarred and feathered and put on a rail, was part of the idea advanced during the lecture. The editor of "The Varsity", he holds, is worse than the Algie case and if he had his way Mr. Allan should be expelled immediately. He explained he had not read "The Varsity" until recently when so much attention was drawn to the matter, and he considered its editorials a disgrace.

Noted Instructress To Teach Swimming

Classes For Women Will Be Held in Y.W.C.A. Pool

On Monday evening February 2nd at 7.45 P. M. in the Y. W. C. A. Pool, Miss Sheffield of Columbia University will give demonstrative lessons in the teaching of swimming to beginners and advanced pupils. Miss Sheffield is an outstanding authority on the teaching of swimming to women and her success is recognized from coast to coast. The class in beginners will be composed of girls from the Montreal High School for girls, and the advanced class is a group from R. V. C., Y. W. C. A., and M. A. A. A.

Miss Sheffield is coming to Montreal under the auspices of the Quebec Physical Education Association and the Department of Extra-Mural Relations at McGill University.

Saturday Night Club Hears Dr. Horst Oertel

This evening the Saturday Night Club will have as its guest speaker Dr. Horst Oertel of the Faculty of Medicine. The club will meet in the Secretary's office in Strathcona Hall at 8:15 o'clock. All men who are interested are invited.

Dr. Oertel is Strathcona Professor of Pathology and Director of the Pathological Institute. The Saturday Night Club is an organization which affords students an opportunity to meet professors in an informal way. It is now in its second year of existence.

Elimination Fighting Excited Large Crowd At College Assault

Seven Boxing Bouts, And Four Wrestling Matches Decided — Commerce Leads Faculties With Four Wins — Porteous Secured Only Knock-Out.

TOE TO TOE FIGHTING FEATURED BOXING BOUTS

Prefontaine, Thomas, Matheson, Maughan, Veitch, Porteous And Craig Won Fights — Wolfe, Dainow, Golfman, And Freedman Winning Wrestlers — Finals Tonight.

(By Bob Bowman)

ELEVEN fast bouts featured the opening night of the B.W. & F. Club's annual College Assault, which was run off in the ballroom of the Union last night, before two hundred fight fans, who found it difficult to keep the requested silence as the boxers drew blood, and the wrestlers hurled each other about the ring.

There were seven boxing bouts in all, and four grappling matches which undoubtedly pleased even the most hardened ring enthusiasts. Commerce took the lead from an interfaculty point of view placing four of the winners, Arts having three, Science two, and Medicine and Macdonald one each.

One Knock-Out

Bud Porteous, captain of the B.W. & F. Club, and intercollegiate welterweight champion, secured the only knock-out of the evening, when he put Crutchlow down for the count in the last minute of a fine fight, with a short right hook that travelled no more than six inches. Golfman did as well from a wrestler's standpoint when he took two straight falls from Olesker in a lightweight elimination. Golfman was well remembered by the spectators as the McGill representative last year, who won an intercollegiate title fighting with a football nose guard on to protect a broken nasal organ.

Maughan Defeated Church Heavyweight boxing never fails to draw the spectators out of their seats on occasion, and last night was no exception as George Maughan defeated Harry Church by decision after three rounds of smashing rights and lefts, that finally put Church down for the count of four in the final round. The Commerce lad's great attempt at a comeback after this was a real feature of the evening.

O'Meara Lost Decision

"Cow" O'Meara, famous war horse of the Law Faculty, went down to defeat last night at the hands of Matheson, in another orgy of heavy hitting and bull like rushes. Matheson, out on his feet, and hanging on the ropes at the end of the second round, was able to stage a marvellous comeback in the final frame to take the decision. It was a rough fight, and at one time the crowd became so excited that (Continued on Page Four)

Commerce juniors must be a scrappy class, as five of their members took part in the proceedings last night, three of them being returned winners. Scott, Matheson, Craig, Freedman and Church are the battling band of businessmen.

Roger Wilson, McGill's intercollegiate heavyweight champion, took a casual interest in the Maughan-Church battle last night from the press gallery. A fine struggle should be in order tonight when he stacks up against the winner for the college title.

"Joey" Tannenbaum, who represented McGill in the intercollegiate 112 pound boxing last year, but who is not out this season, made himself useful helping Dave Lack, & Co. roll out the heavy wrestling mat.

Southwood, who dropped a decision to Wolfe in the 112 pound wrestling elimination, was seen here last year in the college championships. He represented Queen's, but lost his bout to his Varsity opponent, who in turn fell before Wolfe in record time.

Fees

The fact that this is the last day for payment of mid-session fees, brings the scarcity of money once more to mind, and with it the proposed establishment of a student loan fund at McGill. Financial arrangements such as this have become a recognized part of university administration in many parts of the United States and a recent report on the feasibility of the whole scheme, issued by one who has been closely connected with its growth and development, is a highly optimistic document.

On this continent it is impossible for us to imagine a large group of poverty-stricken students continuing at the University. Those who cannot afford the expenses simply go out and earn their way by taking a year or two off. And for the younger members of the student body this is perhaps the best course, for it there is a determination to return the money can be found somehow. But the case of the fourth year student is different. He has only a few months to go before getting his degree; and unless he gets it much of his work will have been lost.

It is to these upperclassmen that many of the American Universities make advances which tide over the last term's fee installment.

The idea has been suggested here many times before, and seems to have been entirely accepted in principle. Only the general lack of funds keeps it from being a realized fact, and university officials have spoken so warmly in favor of it that it seems certain to be among the first of the many things which are to be done when prosperity returns.

Seniors will never again have to drop out of college because of lack of funds.

Severer Measures

We note that a local court has sentenced a "hold-up" man to twenty lashes. A sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary was included with this but cannot be regarded as of equal importance. The accused entered a cigar store the other day and relieved the clerk in charge of several hundred dollars at the point of a gun. This is a crime that is very typical of today and one that is on the increase. Too strong measures cannot be adopted to check it.

The use of the lash in the punishing of crimes of this as well as of other types has long been the subject of much controversy and debate. It is difficult, however, to disbelieve the evidence of one's senses and the fact remains that countries in which the lash is a frequently employed means of correction are by far the least troubled by crimes of violence.

To site a concrete example, let us compare the crime situation in Canada and the United States. While no doubt the crime situation in the southern republic is greatly exaggerated by self-satisfied observers and thriving under the peculiar situation of prohibition at the same time it must be admitted that it is getting more and more out of hand and that the punishments meted out are simply not acting as a deterrent to crime. In Canada on the other hand the number of crimes per capita is decreasing and this fact may only be attributed to the means of correction employed.

To particularise, it would seem that only concrete physical discomfort or the fear of it is sufficiently strong to influence the criminal. In the States this is being more and more discouraged. The use of the lash is obsolete, methods of "painless death" are being tried out, above all, prisons are being equipped with all the facilities of a metropolitan hotel and are now regarded by the impoverished criminal as the cheapest means of obtaining a comfortable home.

In Canada the reverse conditions hold. The lash, as we have noted, is extensively used, hanging, we should imagine is much more unpleasant than elec-troutation and the prisons, while sanitary and well run provide only necessities. The result is self evident.

We do not advocate a revival of the "bloody code" which obtained in England not so long ago. What we do wish to point out is that the punishment should be made to fit the crime and the criminal forced to realise that it simply does not pay to transgress the boundaries of the law.

Children's Plays

With the production of "Cinderella", Miss Marguerite Strathy of the English Department achieves her second success of the year in the staging of plays for children. With the assistance of members of the practical drama class, Miss Strathy is putting on a series of four presentations designed to introduce children to theatricals by placing on the stage before them their favorite characters and stories from fairy lore.

Besides providing a laboratory course for students of stage technique, Miss Strathy's plays are doing much to provide the several hundred children who see them with a preliminary background against which their teachers in school will be able, later on, to build a much more satisfactory foreground than would be otherwise possible.

Chewing The Rags

A Digest of Items And Opinions in Other College Papers

Dean Parsons of the University of Oregon states that nine-tenths of the college professors would starve to death if they had to make their living any other way.

A few months ago the girls at Hood College were allowed only one bath a week due to the shortage of water in the neighbourhood.

Coe College plans an annual party for all students who "Flunk Out" of college. The Flunkers' Frolic is given by the college in honor of all students who are forced to leave the school because of poor grades.

Kansas State College has installed a "dating bureau" for students. Women filing their names with the office, to make the bureau successful should answer a questionnaire including the following points: Height? Weight? Waist? Drink? Smoke? Neck? Appetite? Age?

The dean of women at the University of Utah feels that college men are too busy to be collegiate. The average college man is too busy staying in college to learn tap dancing, harmony, auto decorating, cord labeling, slicker figuring, or any other of the so-called collegiate arts.

That there were only about eight real universities in the United States was the view recently expressed by Dr. Nicholas Butler, president of Columbia University.

The Tulane Hurlabaloo brings the news that coeds at the University of Michigan were defeated in their attempts to prove themselves "human beings" in a debate with men students of the University.

A speaker at the University of Washington claims that rumour changes ginger ale into gin. One wonders if desperate students at Washington are filling the campus with rumours in hope of cutting their college expense accounts.

Barbers offered five hundred dollars to officials in the University of Illinois to end the bread-growing contest in which twenty-five hundred students were participating. The offer was refused.

Instead of staying in nights and studying, Doctor Brown of Hunter College has advice the coed that it would be more healthful for her to attend parties more often than she does.

Coeds at the University of Detroit have been forbidden to converse with the male students at any time on the campus.

At Rollins College, a course called "The Art of Making Love" has been added to the curriculum, and credit for five hours a week is given. The faculty reports: "It's the only course in which you can depend on the class to keep ahead of the assignment." We suspect that one of these days the professor will enter the classroom and be forced to expel a couple of students for taking their final exam too early.

Forty-seven college sophomores who believed in the theory "boys will be boys", were lectured severely and remanded to jail for sentence by Magistrate Burke of New York after they had crashed the Rivoli Theatre and raided a subway station as the aftermath of an enthusiastic class dinner. "Perhaps youth should have its fling", the judge said "but there should be a limit to that fling".

Newspapers and Magazines

As we toss our newspaper aside at night we never think of the great contact we have just had with what the rest of this old planet was up to in the past twenty-four hours. We generally buy a paper to read in the street-car, with the idea of getting the latest stock market quotations or finding out about tonight's hockey game and incidentally learning what the rest of the world has been doing. We never think what a great institution the newspaper is and we are prone to underestimate its value, use, and influence.

The real purpose of a newspaper is to bring the individual, in his small sphere of life, into contact with the immediate doings of the world. Without this connection we should be little better off than the stone age. Imagine, listening to a story that had passed through two hundred people before it reached you. Even in our courts two witnesses of an accident give different stories. What would be the condition of the news if it all went around by hearsay? The ancient and ever bothersome gossip would come into their own. A confusion would follow that would take us right back to Methuselah.

It is a great institution but the slogan not to believe everything you read in the newspaper is still as good as ever. The paper may express no opinion of their own on the front page but the do publish somebody's opinion even though they may not personally believe it. For instance, in the time of Columbus, it was probably published in all the newspapers that the greatest scientists believed his boats would sail off the edge of the earth to nowhere. Everybody believed them except Columbus himself, just as everybody believes the nonsense on the front of today's paper.

A newspaper story centers around some incident of an event. In a time when the circumstances of some situation change rapidly the newspaper has a great advantage over the magazine. However, when the magazine does come out, it has had the time to be more certain of the direction of the wind and to gather together a review of the situation. It is from the magazines that we get our best general conception of an event.

Newspapers and magazines do not always work in harmony but they are not independent of each other. They are our greatest means of contact to the world that goes on outside our own small sphere. The paper deals with the immediate day's business; the magazine with the most important doings of the month. Each has a vital place in our civilization that could not be taken away without the gravest results following.—H. C. Johnston.

SHOOTING STARS

Smart—Say girle, did you ever walk back from a ride?
Coed—No, never.
Smart—Hop in, we're going for a ride.

One evening a beautiful vixion in blue walked into a Soph's room.
"Get out of here," said the Soph.
"Make me," said the vision.
And he did.

After the secretary wiped her tears with her skirt the boys didn't have the heart to fire her.
—Voo Doe.

How can you tell if they're necking or dancing?
If they're not moving, they're dancing.
—Lyra.

Shay, Doc thish is Willie Jones calling. I'm in jail. Will ya come down with your stomach pump and bail me out?
—Red Cat.

"Get the lead out," said the professor, "and put it in your Eversharp. We're going to have an exam."
—Desert Wolf.

Sir, in view of the fact that the column entrusted in your care has been completely filled with questionable jokes, the Board requests your resignation. Have you anything to say?
Hell, those jokes weren't questionable. Everybody understood them all right.

BIGGER AND BETTER BEARDS WANTED

A few weeks ago we pointed out in this column that, according to the usual cycle of beards that form of facial adornment would return within a short time.

And now comes the announcement from Oregon State that beards—red beards, black beards, curly beards, straight beards, clean beards, dirty beards, in fact, beards of all kinds—are very much in order on the campus there during the first two weeks of the winter period.

A contest for the best beards is being conducted by the Barometer and Beaver, two campus publications, with prizes to be awarded at the close of the event.

Think what that means to the men of Oregon State, who, like all other men, have long deplored the necessity of a daily struggle with stubborn bristles and have longed to see themselves sporting a really masculine stubble. It should also satisfy those co-eds who admire real, hirsute men. To be sure this is only a contest, but what if the men enjoy it so much that they continue the non-shaving practice? Maybe here is a style which will start in the West and extend eastward.

Someone should sponsor a beard-growing contest at Ohio State. There are hundreds of men who would enjoy nothing more than allowing their razors to rust in their cases and permitting shaving cream to turn rancid in the tube while they glory in their emancipation from the daily shave, reckoned by some campus philosophers as the greatest curse of modern civilization.

Tells of Varied Products of Tar

C. W. Reynolds Addresses Chemical Society

The complete distillation of coal tar to produce the many varied by products was described in detail last night by Mr. C. W. Reynolds of the Canada Paint Company. The address took place at a meeting of the chemical society in the main lecture theatre of the MacDonald Chemistry Building.

For a long time, explained the speaker, tar was regarded as waste matter and very little was put into practical use. At the end of the eighteenth century, however, research workers began to discover various useful by products and during the next few hundred years workers in Germany and England discovered more and more useful products.

Mr. Reynolds then described the various methods of producing the crude tar. The three main ones are from gas works, coke ovens and blast works though there are many other minor sources.

The main products of the distilled and redistilled tar are Benzol, Toluol, Naptha, Carbolle oil, Xylol, Anthracene oil and pitch. The oils may be redistilled in turn to produce even finer products.

After all volatile products have been driven off the remaining pitch is used for many purposes, notably for roofing.

cited the preferential tariff, which he claimed was a great disadvantage to Canadian industry.

N. Levy, for the negative, again argued our obligations, and declared that Canada would never be able to protect herself against aggression without England's aid. Following Cockerton's rebuttal, a vote was taken of the audience, but opinion was so closely divided, that the chairman was forced to cast his vote, which he did in favour of the affirmative.

Poster Exhibition
The executive also gave out that the annual poster exhibition will take place early next week in the Lounge Room of the Union. At present not all contributions are in, and it is expected that the list will be complete by Monday. Judging will take place a few days after the exhibition, and several prominent commercial artists will be asked to officiate in this capacity. The competition officially closes tomorrow afternoon at 5.

Western Falls Before McGill Basketeers In First Game, 33 to 25

Redmen Lead League With Two Wins And No Losses And Are Favored To Defeat Varsity at Toronto Tonight—Faulkner Again High Scorer With 12 Points—Western Rally Staved Off in Second Half.

By MOE ASPLER

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 31. — McGill's chances for a basketball championship this year are especially bright, following their 33-25 victory over Western at London last night. The game was a gruelling one and the McGill regulars bore the brunt of the hard work, only one substitution being made. This occurred when three quarters of the first half was over, as Weber replaced Small. For the remainder of the half and for the full second half no other substitution was made.

As a result of their win, the Redmen are perched at the top of the league with two victories and no losses. Before last night's game each team had won a game apiece. McGill has only Varsity to defeat in order to have beaten every team in the league, but as Varsity was defeated by Western last week, McGill are favorites to win tomorrow night's game at Toronto.

Calhoun Effective

For McGill it would be difficult to choose a star, although Calhoun's great shooting display in the second half when McGill needed the points most was the great factor in the Redmen's win. He scored no fewer than nine of his team's total of 17 during this period. The most outstanding player on the floor however, was Beaton, who is a newcomer to the Western squad. He began the great Western rally at the beginning of the second half, and for the greater part of the half all the play revolved about him.

The score does not altogether indicate the tenaciousness of the struggle. Western started off too well. A basket by Munro on a neat play followed by a long shot from the hands of Beaton gave Western an early 4-0 lead. McGill, however, came back strong. Small scored a rebound followed by a basket by Faulkner. Rice scored a minute later on a beautiful play. Faulkner scored on a tap-off play. Small then scored. This gave McGill a 10 to 4 lead.

McGill held an edge in the play throughout the half and the half time whistle found them leading 16-7.

Western Rallyes

Western seemed not the least bit downhearted and came back fresh in the second half. Beaton started the Western rally. Weber followed with a long shot. Gunn tallied and Beaton scored two more field goals to bring the Western total up to 16. McGill took time out. The scoring was the fastest seen here in a long time; no less than ten points had been scored in exactly one and one half minutes. The time out seemed to do McGill much good and shortly after play was resumed Calhoun scored on a rebound and added further to the McGill lead with a basket on a great play.

VIC DEFENCEMAN

PAUL SMITH, who has lined up with Frank Carlin and Henry Vennor on Victorias Hockey Team defence this year, where he has shown the form that made him a star with McGill teams for several years up until 1929, when he graduated in Law. On Monday night he will oppose his old teammates for the last time this year.

Victorias Oppose McGill in Second Set-to of Latter's Last Doubleheader Before Play-Offs—Final Standing Influenced by Both Games

McGILL'S senior hockeymen are ready to meet Victorias on Monday night. After a hard week's training, Coach Bobby Bell will field a complete lineup for the red and white final appearance in the Q.A.H.A. before the play-offs.

Matrice Powers, veteran goalkeeper, will be at his old post. Captain George McTeer and Bert McGillivray will start on the defence. The front line will be picked from Farquharson, Robertson, Ward, McGill, Farmer, Doherty, McGill, and Crutchfield, and with these men performing at top form, Coach Bell should have no difficulty in juggling around a couple of good trios. Incidentally, Crutchfield will also be used as a relief defenceman.

Student Coupon No. 15

Student Coupon No. 15 will be used to admit all local supporters to the Forum on Monday night when the redmen and Vics clash in the second game of the evening's regular doubleheader. In the curtain-raiser, Canadians and Columbus face each other. From reports in many quarters, this Monday evening's card should find plenty of attraction in store for the hockey fans who journey to the west-end ice emporium.

This will be the last appearance before the play-offs roll around. The redmen can jump into first place by winning against Victorias and to all intents and purposes, the bearers of the red and white colors will be out to get there. Vics too will have something to fight for, since a loss will definitely spell elimination from a play-off berth.

Band Expected

The band and the cheerleader are expected to attend this Monday night, thereby lending a hand to the support which has been mediocre to date. For a winning team, the McGill squad should certainly have more support than has been given it in the past; and with this tussle against Vics starting the ball rolling, it is expected that from now on the student and graduate interest will be at a high pitch.

In the first game of the season, the redmen opened their year with a 2 to 0 win over Victorias and they will be out to close the season in just as smart a method as they can. Betting at a late hour last night favored McGill to beat Vics, odds being somewhere in the vicinity of 3 to 1. In spite of this, the McGill stickhandlers know that they will have a great fight on their hands, and may expect plenty of opposition.

WILL LEAD REDMEN

CAPTAIN GEORGE McTEER, who will lead McGill's senior hockeymen against Victorias on Monday night. Coupon no. 15 will admit students to the Forum to see the Red Team make its final appearance in the Q. A. H. A. Senior Group schedule before the play-offs.

Hold Badminton Meet Next Week

University Championships to Be Run Off

McGILL University Badminton Championships will be run off next week in the M.H.S. gym. Though the meet is nominally under control of the McGill Badminton Club entry is open to all undergraduates of the university and to graduates pursuing courses here.

There will be three events. Singles will be run off in both A and B classes and while there are only A class doubles entries will be accepted from both classes.

Lists for entrants have been posted in both the Arts and Science building as well as in the tuck shop. The entrance fee is twenty five cents for each event, that is, twenty five cents for a single entry and fifty for a double.

Keen competition may be expected in the A class tournament as the holders of both titles are no longer attending the university. Bill Argue, last year's champ has completed his course as has his doubles partner Langstroth. The likely contenders are Seely, Chailles, Webster and Denis although they may anticipate plenty of opposition to their ambitions.

These four men were all entrants in the Montreal City and District Championships. Both doubles teams which they formed advanced into the third round while Seely and Chailles made the singles quarter-finals.

WON CLOSE BOUT

GIB CRAIG, who having stepped up a weight this year, won his very active bout last night from Jim MacBrien, a freshman, who carried the fight to him at most stages, but lacked the style and effectiveness of the winner.

Law 1 Hockeymen Defeat Theology

Revamped Legal Sextette Trounces Ministers, 6 to 1

WEBSTER GETS FOUR

LAW's revamped hockey squad, with the great "Silent" Urquhart in nets ran through Theology by the score of 6 to 1 yesterday afternoon on the Campus Rink thereby advancing another step in quest of the interclass championship and full campus honors.

Four clean-cut goals by "Bullet-Joe" Webster, and two more from the sticks of "Pansy" Munich and "Sylvester" Mulally gave the legal lights a sufficient margin with which to lie down, and the Theologs availed themselves of the opportunity to save themselves from a whitewash when McRae scored two minutes from the end.

Lawyers Let Loose

From the start, the legal sextet unleashed a terrific onslaught. "Bullet-Joe" Webster, recently acquired from the Chicoutimi Owls tallied a few minutes after the start on a brilliant individual foray, placing the rubber past Metcalf on a short hard drive. Mulally made it two for Law, and then "Bullet-Joe" repeated his performance. Munich closed the scoring for the lawyers in the first half.

The second half again saw the su-

City League Cagers Win Easy Tilt Over Bishop's

Take Sherbrooke Men Into Camp by 37-17 Victory in Exhibition Game—Redmen Hampered by Small Gym—Harrigan, Hayden and Hammond Show Up Well

(Special to McGill Daily)

Sherbrooke, Jan. 30.—The red city league basketball quintet gained an easy victory over the Bishop's College outfit by the score 37-17 in their first of two exhibition games at Sherbrooke last night. Although the redmen were rather hampered by the small Bishop's gym, they nevertheless clearly demonstrated their superiority over their opponents.

The game started slow and the redmen were for a while held to a standstill. However, play speeded up as time went on and the McGill forward line found the basket time and again. Harrigan, Hayden and Silverman combined effectively to put the red team in the lead. The Bishop's defence weakened a trifle under the fast and neat combination of the McGillians and the redmen had no difficulty in getting close in. However, the home team was not to be suppressed so easily and they retaliated with several baskets. The first session ended with the redmen leading 17-12.

Game Fast

The second session started with a rust and the redmen's aggressiveness and speed literally swept the purple team off their feet. The sub line of Hayden, Harrigan and Silverman combined very well and their plays were a treat to watch. The home quintet could not penetrate the red five man defence in the second half and had to resort to long shots. Unfortunately their shooting was way off form and they only garnered 5 points in this half, while the redmen amassed a total of 20 points.

For McGill, Hammond, Harrigan, Hayden and Halpenny were outstanding while McMoran played best for Bishop's.

DORKEN, HOUGHTON WIN FIRST DAY SKI EVENTS

Winter Sports Captain Takes Slalom And Freshman Star Leads Downhill Men — Program Finishes Today And Tomorrow — Team For Dartmouth To Be Named Soon

DOWNHILL and slalom ski races were decided yesterday in the first part of the college winter sports program on Mount Royal. Captain Walter Dorken took the slalom in 37.6 seconds, and Jack Houghton, the freshman find, led the downhill contestants in 2 minutes, 5 seconds.

Nineteen men ran the fast and difficult downhill course, and times were taken for most of these. The slalom, a test of ability to make turns between pairs of flags on a short downhill run, was run in two sections, and the times were added up to indicate the order of merit.

Program Continues Today

This morning at 10 a.m. there will be a 2-mile snowshoe race starting from the Field House. The 7-mile cross-country race has been cancelled owing to lack of competitors, but anyone desirous of showing his skill in the ski cross-country is invited to enter the 16-mile race from St. Marguerite to Shawville tomorrow.

This afternoon McGill jumpers will be performing at Cote des Neiges hill, the main representatives being W. L. Ball and K. R. Mackenzie.

READY FOR VERMONT

HERB WIGGERS, most experienced fencer on the McGill squad and individual intercollegiate champion, who lines up as one of the Three Musketeers who form the nucleus of the team that is at home to University of Vermont in the Union reading room tonight. The other foil artists of the trio are McKergow and Captain Harvey-Jellie.

Vermont Fencers To Prove McGill's Mettle Tonight

Foilsmen Clash in Union Reading Room at 8.15

'3 MUSKETEERS' READY

THE Union reading room will resound to the music of clashing blades tonight when the Championship McGill fencing team will cross with the foilsmen from Vermont in what should prove the best fencing meet of the season. The Vermont team is reputedly one of the strongest in the Eastern Conference in the United States and was represented in the finals of the Conference Tournament only to be beaten out by the Army.

The "Three Musketeers" of Canadian collegiate fencing; Wiggers, McKergow and Harvey-Jellie are now producing the best fencing that they have ever done in their long and spectacular careers. Wiggers is the strongest fencer in Canadian fencing circles and has a remarkable list of victories, including being Collegiate champion which he won by a large margin in the B. W. and F. Assault last year. He has done much fine work for the Montreal Fencing Club in international meets.

Two Men Graduate

MacKergow and Harvey-Jellie, this year's team captain, are entering their last year of collegiate fencing and are determined that this season will cap their string of spectacular performances. Both have been training painstakingly and under the guidance of Coach Raymond have made considerable improvement in all departments of the art. Harvey-Jellie is a fencer who has remarkable speed and scintillating style. MacKergow is a reliable and steady man and will be one of the best point-gatherers of the team. Both have had considerable experience which will stand them in good stead tonight.

Fleury Strokes

DeMontigny and Perrault are the two others who will compose the team to make it even stronger in all round strength than the team of last year. The former is fast and the possessor of many lightning-like manoeuvres, the most notable being his crafty coupe and remise. Perrault will be experiencing his first year in fast competition but he has been working steadily and will be no drawback to this aggregation of first-class performers.

The meet will be held in the reading room of the Union and will begin at 8.15. Students will be allowed in on their Athletic coupons. The general admission tickets are thirty-five cents each, and may be obtained from MacKergow, Law 2; DeMontigny, Soc. 4; Perrault, Arts 4; Bailey, Med I.

College Boxing Titles To Be Decided Tonight

Seven Boxing, And Three Wrestling Bouts Billed to Start At Eight O'clock in Union — Capacity Crowd Expected—Student Coupons Not Necessary—Four Intercollegiate Champions Fighting

A record breaking crowd should be on hand this evening to see the finals of the College Assault, which take place in the Ballroom of the McGill Union at eight o'clock. Ten title bouts will be seen, seven of them being staged by the leather-pushers, and action is promised all the way.

Four intercollegiate champions will be called on to defend their college titles, as Porteous battles Craig in a welterweight boxing bout, and Wilson stacks up against George Maughan in the heavyweight division. Golfman and Norwood, are the two champion wrestlers who complete the quartet.

New Freshman Cup

One of the features of the evening will be the presentation of the Former McGill Champions Cup to the winner of the best freshman bout, and a medal to the best freshman loser. Thomas, Dey, and Andrews are right in line for this distinction, and all three are capable, and deserving of the honor.

In the boxers division two fights seem to be the feature attractions; Wilson vs. Maughan, for the heavyweight title, and Porteous vs. Craig, for the welterweight crown. It will be remembered that Wilson, and Maughan met in the heavyweight finals last year, and their terrific scrap kept the spectators standing on their feet the whole three rounds. Wilson won the decision, finally, and it is on record that Maughan fought the last round with a broken nose. There is every good reason to believe that tonight's battle between these two will be just as tough, and exciting.

Welter Feature

Two fine boxers will parade their wares when Porteous and Craig clash.

and it seems like a long odd bet that this scrap will be the best on a great card. Both fighters are in perfect condition, have knock-out wallops in either hand, and know the manly art from A to Z. Porteous gave a demonstration last night of his punning ability when he knocked out Crutchfield with a short jab that travelled only a few inches. At the same time those with experience in the matter claim that Craig has a right cross that is practically as hard as Roger Wilson's haymaker.

A promising newcomer to the squad will be seen in Thomas, who hooks up with Dey, for the lightweight title. Thomas won his bout last night against Innes by the technical knock-out route, after three rounds of smart boxing, and looks like one of the most polished performers seen here this year.

Sampson In Action

Paul Sampson, defending his 113 pound title against Prefontaine, always gives the fight fans something to enthuse over. He has speed, punching ability, and the best footwork in the squad. On the other hand Prefontaine proved last night that he can stop with the best, and that he is capable, at least, of giving the Gananogue a real run for his money.

In the wrestling division Golfman, and Norwood are outstanding, and grappling fans will see some mat work of the highest order when these two perform. Norwood is up against Dainow, who defeated Scott last night after losing the first fall to the Commerce student. His smart comeback stamps him as an outstanding McGill wrestler.

Major Forbes had to plead for peace and quiet once more.

A Toe to Toe Thriller
Gib Craig was returned winner over "Two Gun" MacBrien in another scrap that was a toe to toe leather pushing test that glared up the roped square more than a little. Craig's scientific defensive tactics gave him quite a margin on the three rounds, as he successfully landed hard rights and lefts to MacBrien's head, as the latter forced the pace all the way. Both seemed groggy at the final bell and little wonder as they smacked each other with everything but the ringside seats.

Finals Tonight
The winners of last night's bouts fight tonight for the prize college titles, and the right to represent McGill in the intercollegiate tournament in Toronto next month. Judging from the eliminations a capacity crowd should witness what promises to be a tip-top evening by the ringside. At least two real bouts will be seen when Roger Wilson battles George Maughan for the heavyweight title, and Bud Porteous defends his laurels against a G.G. Craig who will be hard to stop.

Wolfe Takes Norwood
The benches were only about one quarter filled when manager DeZwirc brought Wolfe of Macdonald into the ring, and Southwood of Arts to fight it out in a 112 pound clash. Wolfe, who won an intercollegiate championship last year appeared confident, and Southwood, who represented Queen's looked nervous. They started off fast, and both boys tossed each other around in great style.

Just at the five minute mark Wolfe nearly won a fall, but Southwood wiggled out of it, and the crowd could not help but applaud. In the second round Southwood held sway all the time, and an extra round was called for by the judges. Right from the start Wolfe picked his opponent right up, and threw him onto the mat, and held the upper hand for the rest of the round. He won the decision. Southwood got a great hand from the crowd as he left the room.

Prefontaine Outpoints Cohen
The mitt-men were next called into the roped square, as Prefontaine, and Cohen were billed in a 118 pound elimination scrap. They started boxing at long range, and both landed some smart body blows, fighting casually. The round was even. Prefontaine won the next round planting three hard rights to the Arts boy's jaw.

The fight speeded up, and the crowd became a little unruly. Prefontaine caught Cohen with a low blow in the last round, but the latter's hockey trousers protected him well. Prefontaine's long left stood him in good stead as Cohen tried hard to get a lead, and he peppered the Arts lad to the head and body. He won the decision.

Thomas T. K. O.'s Innes
Innes and Thomas were next on the bill, boxing at 135 pounds. Thomas gave a real boxing display right from the bell, and had Innes in a bad way at the end of the round. Blood was freely flowing from the Simcoe boy's nose, but he was driving long lefts to Thomas' body. Innes started the second round off well, and landed a couple of hard blows to his opponent's head, but Thomas was boxing beautifully, and soon had Innes groggy. The bell saved him. Innes, his face covered with blood, fought a game fight in the final round, until he finally fell onto the ropes, and Thomas was awarded a technical K. O. Both were given a great hand by the spectators for a good exhibition.

Dainow Comes Back To Win
Once more the wrestling mat was rolled into the ring for a lightweight tussle, Scott opposing Dainow. After four minutes and 40 seconds fighting in the first round Scott scored a fall, using an armlock, after picking his opponent up, and hurling him to the mat. Until that point the fight had been even. Dainow evened the count with a smart fall after two minutes of fighting in the second round, and then went on to win it with another masterpiece half a minute later. It was a smart comeback, and both grapplers received a good hand for their fast display.

Golfman Defends Title
Golfman and Olesker went at it in another lightweight grappling match. Golfman won the intercollegiate title last year, fighting with a football nose-guard on to protect a broken nasal organ. Golfman won a fall after one minute and 50 seconds, using a body roll that was not to be denied. Olesker had been wrestling well, but was up against an expert. Golfman won the fight two minutes later, when he caught Olesker with a body scissors, and pinned his shoulders to the mat.

Freeman and Journet stepped under the light next in a 158 pound fixture. Freeman had one ear bandaged up protecting a frozen ear. Both wrestlers tried hard for a grip in the first frame, with Freeman generally the aggressor. Neither had succeeded in obtaining a fall, and the crowd got a good laugh out of their antics. Both fell contentedly into a clinch in the final minute to await the judges' decision, which went to Freeman.

Porteous Gets Surprise K.O.

Porteous and Crutchlow received a great hand as they stepped into the ring to fight out their welterweight elimination. Porteous is the intercollegiate 117 champion, and captain of the B.W. & F. club. George Sidders took over the referee's duties. They boxed carefully in the first round feeling each other out. Porteous landed the only real blow, a shifty left to Crutchlow's head. The latter fought with a great deal more confidence in the next round, and landed some fine blows to Porteous face and body.

The wily captain, however, was able to shoot in several of his left hand jabs that hurt more than a little. Crutchlow started off with a fighting attack in the final round but ran afoul of a left hook to the jaw, and went down for the count. The knock-out blow came as a large sized surprise, as Crutchlow had seemed to be forcing the issue and fresh.

MacBrien and Craig were next on the bill in another welterweight fixture. Craig was McGill's intercollegiate lightweight champion in 1929 while MacBrien is a Capital City freshman, and spent a year at R.M.C. MacBrien forced the issue right from the bell but ran into a flock of rights and lefts in the face. It looked as though Craig would knock him out for a moment, but the ex-cadet kept plugging right along, and refused to go down.

The second round was just the same, and the crowd became wild as the two leatherpushers slugged to and fro. Craig was getting the better of the exchanges, but MacBrien was the aggressor all the way. The final round was an orgy of punches and both were groggy at the bell. MacBrien won this final round, but Craig was given the verdict on his showing in the first two frames. The crowd went wild during the fight, and Major Forbes had to plead for silence.

Veitch Wins In Hard Third
"Bad" Veitch, and "Bad Boy" Brenhouse were next in the ring to fight it out in the 160 pound class. Bert Light handled the affair. Veitch looked to be the better conditioned boxer when they were given instructions in the centre of the ring. The first round was even, as both boxers tried hard to land a solid blow without much success. Veitch was the aggressor, but Brenhouse was covering up well, and was never hurt.

Veitch was fighting with an unusual grin on his face that was wiped off once in the second round when Brenhouse landed two hard rights to his face. The Commerce senior came right back, however, with the same dose, and they were fighting hard at the bell. In the third round Veitch scored heavily with a series of rights, and lefts to Brenhouse's head. He also landed three or four hard rights to his opponent's stomach, and won the decision.

"Cow" O'Meara received a token from Law as he stepped into the ring in a bright green dressing gown, to fight Matheson in a 175 pound elimination. The crowd howled as O'Meara crept on Matheson step by step in his crouching weaving style. No hard blows were landed in the first round however, as both boxers were riding vicious punches easily. O'Meara would have nothing to do with smelling salts between the rounds.

In the second round O'Meara landed a couple of hard wallops on the button, and two or three more that landed low on the body. He had Matheson hanging on the ropes at the end of the second, and there were cries of foul, but the Commerce lad would not claim it.

In the third round O'Meara was again the aggressor, but Matheson kept landing hard with his right and left to the lawyer's body, and plainly won the round. He was given the judges' decision, amidst a display of mixed feelings from the spectators.

Maughan Earns Wilson Fight
The feature fight of the evening came next, as Harry Church and George Maughan faced one another for the privilege of meeting Roger Wilson this evening for the heavyweight title. The first round was slow as both fighters moved cautiously. Church piled up an early lead, but Maughan evened it up in this round just before

Western Falls Before McGill Basketeers

With McGill leading 27-18, Western started another great rally and brought their total to within 2 points of McGill's score. A moment later, however, Weber put the game on ice with another long shot, followed by Faulkner's two free throws and Calhoun's field goal.

The game ended 33-25 in McGill's favor. It was one of the closest and most exciting games that has taken place in the intercollegiate loop in many a year.

Theologs Always There
The Theologs fought back throughout, but were clearly no match for the coming champions. It is understood that much divine tender changed hands as a result of the contest, and the law machine will break training tonight to celebrate. In any case, all players will report in before dawn.

the bell, when he landed two smart right hooks to the football star's head. There was more action in the second round, and both fighters landed a couple of hard blows. Church was bleeding at the mouth at the bell, but Maughan's face was rouged as evidence of a couple of Church's jabs. The third round went to Maughan, who had Church groggy after two minutes of real scrapping. Just before the final bell he put him down for the count of four with a right hand cross that was the best blow of the evening. The commerce lad, however, bounced right back for more, and was going strong at the final bell. Maughan was given the judges' decision.

From the Four Corners of the Earth

NORTH, South, East and West—all have something to tell you in the newspapers.

News columns give you items of interest in the political, financial and social worlds. Advertising columns give you information just as interesting, and even more valuable to you—news of the things that have to do with your personal, every-day life.

The advertisements spread out for your inspection the products of progressive manufacturers the country over—the comforts and conveniences that play so large a part in modern life. The wares of every progressive merchant in town are laid attractively before you.

From your easy chair you read the offerings, compare values, check the statements against your previous experience and then make your selections.

Thus you save time, money and the effort spent in useless "shopping around." And you gain in the satisfaction that comes from a purchase well made. Keep up on the shopping news.

Read the advertisements before you buy. It pays.
